ABSTRACT

Intended to aid theatre administrators as they attempt to exhange information, high school and college faculty members as they advise students on the availability of suitable programs, and students of theatre as they seek degree programs appropriate to their needs, this directory groups theatre programs by state and lists them alphabetically. Each entry begins with the name of the institution, followed by the degrees offered, the number of full-time and part-time faculty, areas of specialization at undergraduate and graduate levels, the name and title of the chief theatre administrator, the complete mailing address, and the office telephone number. For the convenience of advisors, programs offering the MFA and PhD degrees are summarized again at the end of the directory. The questionnaire used to obtain the information for the directory is also included. (HTH)

The Association for Communication Administration was founded in 1972. Originally called the Association for Departments and Administrators in Speech Communication, the name and scope of the Association were changed in 1975. During its years of existence, the ACA has grown to become the most dynamic and responsive of the communication-related organizations. It has achieved this prominence by serving the needs of departmental administrators in the communication arts and sciences. The ACA set as its goals to:

1. Shape and implement measures for advancing the interests of the discipline in colleges and universities;
2. Serve as a forum for the discussion of basic issues relating to communication, radio-TV-film, speech and theatre as disciplines in higher education;
3. Facilitate communication between departmental and higher administrative personnel concerned with the communication arts and sciences, and provide means for collecting and disseminating information of importance to them;
4. Encourage the development through the action of responsible administrative officers of general policies relating to: staff; departmental, school and college management; curriculum; assistantships, fellowships and other related matters;
5. Provide a means for making effective, in academic affairs and in matters affecting the public interest, the opinions and aims of the profession;
6. Publish a quarterly BULLETIN incorporating information useful to academic administrators in all areas of the communication arts and sciences.

To assist in achieving these goals, the membership elects each year three new members to the Executive Committee. It is from the Committee that the President and Vice President are elected.

seminar

Each year the ACA sponsors The Annual Seminar in which experienced administrators from within and without the profession describe strategies for departmental leadership and participants share information on problems and their solutions, on successful strategies and potential failures, and on general attitudes for survival in the academic world of administration. Seminars have dealt with accountability, unionization, education trends, management, administrators and the law, and assessment of programs. Topics for the seminar are determined by the needs of the membership.

services

In addition to an Annual Seminar, the ACA sponsors convention programs for administrators at the SCA meeting, as well as preparing special programs for meetings of the CSSA, ECA, SSCA, WSCA, SETC, and CAP.

The ACA also operates a Clearinghouse on Faculty Exchange to assist administrators in locating available persons for visiting or exchange professorships.

In 1978 the ACA established a Program Review Service to enable departments to secure screened and competent evaluators for visitations to their campuses. Earlier, the Association approved official Guidelines for Department Chair Evaluation; an official Statement on Hiring, Retention and Tenure; and official Guidelines on Work-Load Equivalency. When the need merits it, Special Reports are published such as those on Research in the Communication Arts and Sciences and Speech Communication in the Community-Junior College. And, the ACA publishes the basic careers brochure for the profession.

bulletin

The Bulletin of the ACA is the quarterly journal of the ACA. It is sent to all members. The proceedings of seminars and convention programs are published in the BULLETIN. Articles which have appeared in recent issues have dealt with such areas as: Artistic Accountability, Unionization, Internship Programs, Managing a Department, Ethnic Programs, Placement Studies, Grants, Faculty Development, Data Commission Statistical Reports, Administrators and the Law, Rating of Doctoral Programs.

membership

Membership in the ACA is open to any person, but is of particular interest to departmental administrators in higher education. The annual dues in the ACA are $35.00, of this amount $15.00 is for a subscription to the ACA BULLETIN for one year. Although a membership is entered in the individual's name, it is considered to be departmental.

To join the ACA send $35.00 to: ACA National Office, 5105 Backlick Road, #E, Annandale, VA 22003.

FOREWORD

This is the second edition of the ACA DIRECTORY OF THEATRE PROGRAMS. The first edition, published in 1983, met a long-standing need. This new edition adds many new listings and provides additional information about degree programs and student enrollments.

Compiled at Florida State University's College of Communication by Eileen McDonnell, the DIRECTORY is computerized and thus can be updated regularly.

The purpose of the DIRECTORY id threefold: to aid theatre administrators in their exchange of information; to help high school and college advisors assess the availability of suitable programs; and to help theatre students identify programs appropriate to their needs.

This edition of the DIRECTORY lists approximately 735 programs in the US, Canada, and the Caribbean. Of these, some 105 offer the BFA degree, 75 offer the MFA, and 34 offer the PhD. Over 100 of the programs listed are housed in two-year institutions abd 10 are in non-academic schools. Approximately 50 list minors or concentrations but do not list academic degrees in theatre.

In the DIRECTORY, theatre programs are grouped by states and are listed alphabetically within the state. A typical entry contains the following types of information:

Name of Institution
Degrees offered and, when provided, the number of students in a program
Number of full-time faculty
Number of part-time faculty
Areas of specialization at undergraduate and graduate levels, coded as follows:

U = Undergraduate G = Graduate
A = Acting
CT = Children's Theatre
CD = Creative Dramatics
C = Costuming
D = Directing
DL = Dramatic Literature
L = Lighting
P = Playwriting
SD = Scene Design, and
Other areas as specified

Name and Title of the Theatre Administrator
Mailing Adress
Office Telephone Number

For the convenience of advisors, programs offering the MFA and the PhD degrees are summarized at the end of the DIRECTORY.

An effort was made, by mail and telephone, to contact all theatre programs, but obviously those that failed to respond could not be included.

For those programs which provided information for the 1983 edition but failed to respond to the 1985 questionnaire, the 1983 information was carried over into the present edition. These listing lack the information about student enrollments and degree specialization.

The ACA hopes readers will find this DIRECTORY helpful. Errors in this edition should be brought to the attention of the ACA Executive Secretary or the ACA Executive Committee members so that they can be corrected in any later editions. As well, the ACA would appreciate knowing of ways to improve subsequent editions of this DIRECTORY OF THEATRE PROGRAMS so that it better meets the needs of theatre personnel.
